Partial Cancellation Of The Allied Debt

BIG BUSINESS IS ON TRIAL BEFORE AMERICAN PEOPLE

MUST CONDUCT AFFAIRS TO MERIT THE RESPECT OF ALL THE NATION

WELFARE OF INDUSTRY DEPENDS ON ECONOMIC WELFARE OF PEOPLE

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)
Washington, Jan. 27.—A warning to big business that is on trial before the people of the United States was uttered here today by Colonel Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, chairman of the board of directors of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. Stewart himself, one of the most powerful industrial leaders of the nation in an exclusive interview with the United Press said big business must reform where it needs reforming.

Industry is confronted with the task of conducting its affairs to merit the respect of all people and of educating the public mind to the fact that on the welfare of our industries depends the economic welfare of the whole American people" Stewart said.

"Eventually the American people will render a verdict. The verdict may come as soon as 1924 although that soon is not likely. "If industry sits quiet and permits public sentiment to crystallize against it—whether justly or unjustly—the American people will that day embark on a crusade with all cheerful enthusiasm they put into everything."

"I believe," he said, heatedly, "that the spirit which guides the industry is one of right and not of might, but there are, of course, abuses and the agitator with his exaggerations inflames the public mind while we sit in silent dignity."

"Already there has been strong talk of government ownership of the coal industry and of intervention in the affairs of the railroads."

"Our own industry has felt the federal prohibition. If industry permits the public mind to set against it, the day will come when some of these industrial activities will lose their scalps. It is wasted effort to fight the formation of federal and state commissions which interfere with or hamper industry. That is merely to delay the inevitable for these commissions are the symptoms of the disease."

"The disease is in the ill-informed public mind and in the conduct of the industry itself. There are two things we must do:

"First, pursue a definite economic policy which will have the respect and support of the American people."

Second, educate the public to the fact that anything that harms industry harms the people as a whole."

U. S.-GERMAN RADIO HITS 110 WORDS MINUTE

Paris, Jan. 27.—"We have sent messages at a rate of 110 words a minute between America and Germany," said Edward J. Nally, managing director of the Radio Corporation of America, today. "Speed is a factor that will make wireless a dominating power in the world's communications system. Already 30 per cent of the telegraph traffic across the Atlantic goes by wireless and 60 per cent across the Pacific."

The four leading wireless companies of America, England, France and Germany have arranged to pool their wireless patents and Mr. Nally is going to London, Monday, for a conference, at which the details will be worked out.

"South America is going to be first in the big field to be developed by international co-operation," said Mr. Nally, "and we are making a joint effort to establish wireless communication from Buenos Aires to the great centers of the world, one-third less expensive than at present."

AVIATORS TALK TO PERSONS ON FIELD

(By United Press)

Dayton, O., Jan. 27.—McCook Field authorities claim to have perfected an instrument that will enable aviators, while flying, to talk to persons on the ground.

The feat has been accomplished by means of loud speaking instrument located at the end of the fuselage of a Martin bomber.

When tried out here a few days ago, the plane was three hundred feet in the air, but the pilot's voice was heard distinctly by persons on the ground.

McCook Field aero engineers have been working for several years to perfect an appliance of this kind. They expect to make certain changes in the instrument which will make it carry the voice with greater distinctness from greater altitudes.

BALDWIN CLAIMS THAT ALLIED DEBT PROBLEM IS HANDLED IN AMERICA BY POLITICIANS AND NOT BY STATESMEN

(By United Press)

Southampton, Jan. 27.—Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer said upon his arrival here today from New York that the greatest difference between English and Americans is the fact that in America the politicians are handling the final settlement of the debts question whereas politicians were not concerned with the debts question. Baldwin headed the British debt mission in Washington.

He said he believed that Secretary Mellon could have arranged terms with Great Britain for the settlement of the debt but that the matter was immensely complicated by getting into the hands of congress. "Americans are still country folk politically" Baldwin continued in explaining the difficulties he encountered in Washington.

New York opinion cuts no ice whatever. The house and senate are composed chiefly of men from farming and pastoral communities.

"The bulk of Americans have no knowledge of international trade. Whether the British debt is funded now or in the future, it can be only funded on terms which can be got through congress."

TEMPER OF PEOPLE TO BE TESTED OUT IN SENATE SOON

WILL COME UP IN DISCUSSION OF PROPOSED ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT WILL PROBABLY HINGE ON ALLIED DEBTS

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 27.—The temper of the American people regarding partial cancellation of Europe's war debt as a means of giving the United States government power to bring about a settlement of the reparations problem will be tested in the senate. This will come during discussions in a proposed economic conference and the reparations question.

The public will be asked to consider whether it would vote to insist on an attempt to collect the French debt which all official Washington is convinced is uncollectible now, or in the future, or to mark it off as the price of an agreement by France in a sensible world economic problem.

In development of this idea senators will point to utterances of French statesmen, government officials and financiers to the effect:

That discussion of payment by France of the debt contracted during the war is "purely an academic question."

That France got from the United States not money but supplies and that unless the United States will accept supplies in payment it is useless to discuss the matter.

That France cannot even talk about the question until assured beyond any doubt that Germany will be able to pay regularly on her indemnity.

It is unlikely that any senators will openly advise at this juncture legislation authorizing the government to forgive the French debt, but for several reasons a number of senators believe the question should have consideration, and that the public mind should be set at work on it.

A complicated system of taxation is also established.

FAMOUS HOTEL PASSES AWAY

(By United Press)

Sandusky, O., Jan. 27.—The hotel for which your Porter House steak was named is being razed.

Built in 1817, the Porter House, considering its size and accommodations, is said to be unrivaled in the midwest for picturesque historical background.

Charles Dickens, who visited it in 1874, is credited with giving the hotel its first flush of fame. Dickens was so pleased with a steak served him in the little dining room, that, when in Buffalo, a few days later, he asked for a steak, "like they serve at the Porter House in Sandusky."

The English author spread the fame of the Porter House steak throughout the country by dwelling on its deliciousness in many American addresses.

Soon afterward leading cafes and hotels announced "Porter House" steaks. It is not known whether any one ever actually took the trouble to get the cooking formula from the Porter House chef. It is said here that chefs merely started calling their best steaks "Porter House."

The old hotel, declared a menace by the state fire marshal, has had a half dozen names during its lifetime, but there are still a few residents of Sandusky who remember it as the Porter House.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The temper of the American people regarding partial cancellation of Europe's war debt as a means of giving the United States government power to bring about a settlement of the reparations problem will be tested in the senate. ### AN EDUCATIONAL SQUARE DEAL

THE report of the interim committee on education has directed attention to matters that ought to be intelligently considered by the legislature. The committee has discovered that conditions in the rural districts are not at all commendable. The school buildings are in many cases inadequate, and the teachers are not qualified by training and experience to educate the children of the rural communities, who are often neglected while city children have all of the educational advantages. This is not always true, for there are exceptionally able teachers in some of the rural schools, whose experience has enabled them to give real values for the compensation received.

The committee recommends that consolidated schools be built wherever possible and the children carried to these by the best means. This recommendation is a good one and with the improvement in roads is becoming more practical. But the districts in which consolidated schools are desirable are not always given a fair share of the educational monies of the state. The committee finds it true of these expenditures that "To him that hath shall be given." Those who need assistance most receive least. The division of school funds must be more equitably arranged.

In looking over the cities the committee finds that quite often school buildings are erected which are the acme of extravagance. This spend-thrift policy must be checked. It is said of homes that "the fool builds a large house and the wise man lives in it." The point of the old saying comes from the necessity the builder of the large home is under of selling it because he cannot afford the upkeep, so that the wise man is able to buy it for much less than the cost of building. But with schools it is different. Once built these must be kept up. Imposing buildings with wonderful architectural ornamentation look well and cost much. Buildings should be built which will take care of reasonable increases in numbers in the future but exorbitant demands along this line should be vetoed by the people.

In recommending that school funds be more equitably distributed, so that the rural districts may have proper educational facilities the interim committee has voiced the desire of those who feel that each child in the state should be given a common education. As H. G. Wells has so ably pointed out many a leader may never rise to leadership because he is not given a start. It is the duty of the state to give this start to all of the children. It is more desirable to give all of our citizens a common education, and leave it to the most ardent to find their way to the top, than it is to make it easy for those who have advantages to get to the top by curtailing the opportunities of those at the bottom.

It is not nearly so desirable in a democracy to have many of the children go through high school as it is to have all of the children go through the grades. Minnesotans should get behind the interim committee in demanding an educational square deal for the children of the rural communities of the state.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE

It was not without a stirring of emotions that Americans read of the lowering of "Old Glory" into the outstretched arms of the general in command of the remnant of a once great army. This remnant of an army of four millions was all that remained at the scene of the conflict where Americans fought as heroes and gave the last strong push that drove the enemy back pell-mell towards his own borders. It is all that is left of an army not defeated but gloriously victorious. All but a few of their comrades who joined the regulars are engaged in the pursuits of peace. These, their former comrades, are once more stirred by the words "The gang's all here."

This remnant has represented the force of diplomacy rather than the diplomacy of force. The significance of its recall lies in the fact that in the future America's dealings with Europe are to be through agreement and not by compulsion. For America, so far as force is concerned, "it's over, over there."

Beneath the crosses, row on row, lie those who will never return. For all time those crosses will bear their silent testimony to the great effort America put forward in 1917-1918. The sacrifices they represent will be more justly appraised with the passing years and, despite the appearances of the present, the future will prove that they did not die in vain.

The American flag no longer floats over the Rhineland. History will more completely record the story of the heroism it overlooked and will tell the story of what it meant to Europe in those dread days when it was borne forward in impetuous onslaughts upon the enemy.

If the American government can put the same energy and unselfishness into the exploits of peace that it put into the pursuing of war "Old Glory" will wave again in Europe not as a symbol of conquering force but as an emblem of achieving peace. And in those activities of peace "the gang" that was once an army will have its part to play.

BRAINERD'S HOME BUILDING PROGRAM

MORE and more Brainerd is becoming a city of homes. It is small enough to encourage a home-like atmosphere and large enough to finance plans to increase the number of homes owned by the people of the city.

The year 1923 promises to be a record-breaking year in home building. Private organizations and community associations are in the field and promise victory for the plan that contemplates making Brainerd a city of homes.

All such endeavors should be encouraged. The home-owner has a larger stake in a community. Owning a home increases self-respect, adds a burden of responsibility, stimulates interest in civic affairs, and enlarges the amount of taxable property within the city limits.

The man who takes his friends from the attic to the basement, pointing out the comforts and conveniences of his home, and with a sense of pleasure that comes from possession, says "It is mine" is more interested in his town than the renter whose interest in the city is relegated to his proxy—the landlord.

Lumber companies and buildings associations are making possible an increase in the number of homes in the city by arranging for advancing the cost of such houses on terms that are little if any higher than the rent that would be demanded for houses of the same value as those to be built. A further advantage accruing from such corporate and cooperative activity, comes through the advice they are able to give after a careful study of plans for homes, construction work, and all other items that must be considered by the home-builder. This advice costs nothing and often saves much.

The careful planning of these organizations reveals a confidence in Brainerd's future that will inspire others and help to make Brainerd a city of home owners.

In an interview, Mr. Warren Wright, president of the Calumet Baking Powder company, the largest baking powder company in the world, strongly advocated the use of country newspaper advertising, and points to Calumet's success as proof of his statement.

"Calumet's sales are 2½ times as much as any other brand," stated Mr. Wright, "and we attribute this to our lavish use of newspaper space. We believe that the newspaper is the most direct medium we can use in getting our message across to the housewife and we know from our experience covering thirty years, that the housewife will respond to newspaper advertising quicker than she will to any other form of advertising."

Rome, Jan. 27.—The traditional ceremony of blessing two snow-white lambs took place in Saint Agnes' church here. The lambs were presented to the Pope by Saint Agnes' Sisters, and their wool is destined to the weaving of the Sacred Pallium (a scarf-like vestment of white wool with red crosses, worn by the Pope and certain metropolitans and archbishops).

AN EDUCATIONAL SQUARE DEAL

THE report of the interim committee on education has directed attention to matters that ought to be intelligently considered by the legislature. The committee has discovered that conditions in the rural districts are not at all commendable. The school buildings are in many cases inadequate, and the teachers are not qualified by training and experience to educate the children of the rural communities, who are often neglected while city children have all of the educational advantages. This is not always true, for there are exceptionally able teachers in some of the rural schools, whose experience has enabled them to give real values for the compensation received.

The committee recommends that consolidated schools be built wherever possible and the children carried to these by the best means. This recommendation is a good one and with the improvement in roads is becoming more practical. But the districts in which consolidated schools are desirable are not always given a fair share of the educational monies of the state. The committee finds it true of these expenditures that "To him that hath shall be given." Those who need assistance most receive least. The division of school funds must be more equitably arranged.

In looking over the cities the committee finds that quite often school buildings are erected which are the acme of extravagance. This spend-thrift policy must be checked. It is said of homes that "the fool builds a large house and the wise man lives in it." The point of the old saying comes from the necessity the builder of the large home is under of selling it because he cannot afford the upkeep, so that the wise man is able to buy it for much less than the cost of building. But with schools it is different. Once built these must be kept up. Imposing buildings with wonderful architectural ornamentation look well and cost much. Buildings should be built which will take care of reasonable increases in numbers in the future but exorbitant demands along this line should be vetoed by the people.

In recommending that school funds be more equitably distributed, so that the rural districts may have proper educational facilities the interim committee has voiced the desire of those who feel that each child in the state should be given a common education. As H. G. Wells has so ably pointed out many a leader may never rise to leadership because he is not given a start. It is the duty of the state to give this start to all of the children. It is more desirable to give all of our citizens a common education, and leave it to the most ardent to find their way to the top, than it is to make it easy for those who have advantages to get to the top by curtailing the opportunities of those at the bottom.

It is not nearly so desirable in a democracy to have many of the children go through high school as it is to have all of the children go through the grades. Minnesotans should get behind the interim committee in demanding an educational square deal for the children of the rural communities of the state.

THE GANG'S ALL HERE

It was not without a stirring of emotions that Americans read of the lowering of "Old Glory" into the outstretched arms of the general in command of the remnant of a once great army. This remnant of an army of four millions was all that remained at the scene of the conflict where Americans fought as heroes and gave the last strong push that drove the enemy back pell-mell towards his own borders. It is all that is left of an army not defeated but gloriously victorious. All but a few of their comrades who joined the regulars are engaged in the pursuits of peace. These, their former comrades, are once more stirred by the words "The gang's all here."

This remnant has represented the force of diplomacy rather than the diplomacy of force. The significance of its recall lies in the fact that in the future America's dealings with Europe are to

J. G. Brandt Given Stay of Ten Days in Which to Pay Remainder of His $100 Fine

Edward Radke was fined $100 or 90 days in the city jail on a charge of transporting liquor, and a straight sentence of twenty days additional on a charge of being intoxicated.

This is the third time that Radke has been guilty of the latter offense in the past month, and for this reason Judge J. H. Warner gave him a straight jail sentence.

Radke was picked up Friday night by the deputy sheriff lying in the snow so intoxicated that he could not walk. Had he not been found there is no doubt but what he would have frozen to death.

An additional stay of ten days was given J. G. Brandt in which to pay the remainder of his $100 fine. Half of this fine was paid at the time it was imposed, the balance is suspended for ten days under the above stay. Brandt furnishing the proper security bond.

The trial of Mansfred Norquist, Earl Ralston and Emil Peterson, the three boys alleged to have taken ice cream from the Princess Candy Kitchen Tuesday evening is set for this afternoon at two o'clock before Judge J. BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY

The question of a boxer-wrestler finish, or scrap between Dempsey and Lewis was settled to the satisfaction of two amateurs in Brainerd when Sam Greer donned the mitts at the Walsh & Anderson gymnasium and collided with Young Narveson, wrestler. At the end of a round Narveson was floored and took the count.

In Missoula, Montana, as in Brainerd, the pronunciation of "sheik" is under discussion. The "Oracle" in his column in the Daily Missoulian says that: A real Sheik has arrived. He says that the desert pronunciation is "Sheek". Up to date we had been conscious of a superiority in this regard. For, while we followed the mob and called it "Sheek", we thought the right way was "Shake."

Some subscribers, in a fit of desperation have even dared to call it "Shike."

Regarding Jack Mutch's catch of a 30 pound pickerel, speared at Round lake, the half of the story has only been told. Mutch was sitting in his fish house, half frozen waiting for a fish. Suddenly the pickerel, floating up as big as a calf in the water, neared the hole. Mutch threw his spear with such force that he followed it into the hole and fisherman and pickerel wedged in the ice. After a tremendous amount of squirming, during which Mutch actually choked the pickerel to death, he drew himself and the pickerel out of the hole and back again on "terra firma," no, we mean "icy firma."

On Friday evening a large and enthusiastic audience at the Clara Lutheran church greeted Joel Mossberg, the well known baritone of Chicago. Mr. Mossberg has a powerful voice under perfect control. He has a pleasing personality and his whole heart and soul finds expression in every number that he renders.

His program was very generous, consisting of eighteen numbers in all and still the audience called for more. It is to be hoped that Mr. Mossberg will come this way again and we know that he shall be greeted by a still larger audience.

The accompaniments were played by Miss Mabel Rosenberg of this city.

ABOUT MARL DEPOSITS HERE

Another Fine Bed Covering a Quarter Section in Extent Has Been Discovered

The following letter was written by County Highway Engineer, Walter M. Murphy to the Northwestern Cement Co., of Mason City, Iowa. This company has been manufacturing cement so long at Mason City that their marl supply in that vicinity has been completely exhausted, and it is known that they are casting about for a more suitable location.

Brainerd, with its numerous marl deposits of unusually good quality and extent, should offer just the advantages that a cement manufacturing company require. "Only recently another fine bed of this substance was found that covers a quarter section. It is found under a ten foot layer of peat, has an average thickness of ten feet, and lies on a blue clay bottom. It is believed that such a deposit should be ideal for cement making."

Mr. Murphy's letter follows: "Gentlemen: In this county we have some very good deposits of marl, clay and peat, and if your company is interested, I would be very glad to go into details about them or to show your representatives the possibilities of this section."

"We are very nicely located, being in the geographic center of the state. We are on the main line of the Northern Pacific between Duluth and Fargo. The N. P. also connects up with Minneapolis on the south. The Minnesota & International Ry. runs north from Brainerd to International Falls."

"This state is putting on an extensive concrete road building program. We would like to have you come here and look over the advantages our section offers."

HIGHER PRICES FOR POTATOES

University Economist Says Present Low Price is Not Justified by Demand—Supply Conditions

That prices of potatoes are lower than fundamental supply and demand conditions justify, and that some improvement is likely to follow when the fog created by present uncertainties in the situation has cleared away, is the contention of Dr. Holbrook Working of the University of Minnesota, who has been giving much time to a study of the primary principles which determine the price of this particular product so important in the agriculture of Minnesota.

The university man bases his conclusions on a formula which he has worked out for calculating the price to be expected on the basis of fundamental demand and supply conditions. "Judged by the price of potatoes for each year since 1902," he says, "The formula which we have studied out seems to be quite reliable. Of course, things may not work out just the same in the future as they seem to have worked out in the past, but the past gives us the best indication we have of what is likely to happen in the future. Ever an imperfect formula may be of aid."

Dr. Working has prepared a chart which shows that the price of potatoes in December has been about 93 per cent of the price for the season, September to May, or about 89 per cent of the price for the six months from December to May. "Taking this average for 16 years," he says, "we conclude that the price in December ought to be about 89 per cent of the price for the last six months of the season. Out of the 20 years for which we have figures, there were 12 Decembers in which the formula price was closer to what the price ought to have been than the actual price; seven in which the actual price was closer to what the price should have been than the formula price, and one in which either was as good as the other. The score is 12 to 7 in favor of the formula, with one tie. The actual price for December, 1922, was 38 cents a bushel, or 63 cents a hundred pounds, while the formula price was 75 cents a bushel or $1.25 a hundred pounds. It remains to be seen which will prove nearer what the price should

As to the factors influencing prices Dr. Working concedes that large production and fear that the government estimates may be too low are chief, but asserts that the price formula indicates that even with this high production, and with other conditions as at present, the price ought to be much higher than it actually is. Another factor which is holding down the price is the unusual caution exhibited by both dealers and farmers in storing potatoes until spring. He does not believe that the car shortage has been serious enough to be a fundamental factor in the price situation.

Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment

Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others. Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction. If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides. Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.

Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.

Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.

An additional stay of ten days was given J. G. Brandt in which to pay the remainder of his $100 fine. Half of this fine was paid at the time it was imposed, the balance is suspended for ten days under the above stay. Brandt furnishing the proper security bond.

The trial of Mansfred Norquist, Earl Ralston and Emil Peterson, the three boys alleged to have taken ice cream from the Princess Candy Kitchen Tuesday evening is set for this afternoon at two o'clock before Judge J. ### ***** BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES OF TODAY *****

The question of a boxer-wrestler finish, or scrap between Dempsey and Lewis was settled to the satisfaction of two amateurs in Brainerd when Sam Greer donned the mitts at the Walsh & Anderson gymnasium and collided with Young Narveson, wrestler. At the end of a round Narveson was floored and took the count.

In Missoula, Montana, as in Brainerd, the pronunciation of "sheik" is under discussion. The "Oracle" in his column in the Daily Missoulian says that: "A real Sheik has arrived. He says that the desert pronunciation is 'Sheek'. Up to date we had been conscious of a superiority in this regard. For, while we followed the mob and called it 'Sheek', we thought the right way was 'Shake'."

Some subscribers, in a fit of desperation have even dared to call it "Shike."

Regarding Jack Mutch's catch of a 30 pound pickerel, speared at Round lake, the half of the story has only been told. Mutch was sitting in his fish house, half frozen waiting for a fish. Suddenly the pickerel, floating up as big as a calf in the water, neared the hole. Mutch threw his spear with such force that he followed it into the hole and fisherman and pickerel wedged in the ice. After a tremendous amount of squirming, during which Mutch actually choked the pickerel to death, he drew himself and the pickerel out of the hole and back again on "terra firma," no, we mean "icy firma."

CAPTIVATES AUDIENCE

Joel Mossberg, the Noted Baritone,
Pleases Music Lovers at Clara
Lutheran Church

On Friday evening a large and enthusiastic audience at the Clara Lutheran church greeted Joel Mossberg, the well known baritone of Chicago. He captivated his audience with the first number, which was a selection from the oratorio of Elijah. The enthusiasm grew with each number that was rendered. Mr. Mossberg has a powerful voice under perfect control. He has a pleasing personality and his whole heart and soul finds expression in every number that he renders.

His program was very generous, consisting of eighteen numbers in all and still the audience called for more.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Mossberg will come this way again and we know that he shall be greeted by a still larger audience.

The accompaniments were played by Miss Mabel Rosenberg of this city.

MAY INTEREST CEMENT COMPANY

County Highway Engineer Walter M.
Murphy Writes Northwestern
Cement Co.

ABOUT MARL DEPOSITS HERE

Another Fine Bed Covering a Quarter
Section in Extent Has Been Discovered

The following letter was written by County Highway Engineer, Walter M. Murphy to the Northwestern Cement Co., of Mason City, Iowa. This company has been manufacturing cement so long at Mason City that their marl supply in that vicinity has been completely exhausted, and it is known that they are casting about for a more suitable location.

Brainerd, with its numerous marl deposits of unusually good quality and extent, should offer just the advantages that a cement manufacturing company require. Only recently another fine bed of this substance was found that covers a quarter section. It is found under a ten foot layer of peat, has an average thickness of ten feet, and lies on a blue clay bottom. It is believed that such a deposit should be ideal for cement making.

Mr. Murphy's letter follows: "Gentlemen: In this county we have some very good deposits of marl, clay and peat, and if your company is interested, I would be very glad to go into details about them or to show your representatives the possibilities of this section."

"We are very nicely located, being in the geographic center of the state. We are on the main line of the Northern Pacific between Duluth and Fargo. The N. P. also connects up with Minneapolis on the south. The Minnesota & International Ry. runs north from Brainerd to International Falls."

"This state is putting on an extensive concrete road building program. We would like to have you come here and look over the advantages our section offers."

HIGHER PRICES FOR POTATOES

University Economist Says Present
Low Price is Not Justified by Demand—Supply Conditions

That prices of potatoes are lower than fundamental supply and demand conditions justify, and that some improvement is likely to follow when the fog created by present uncertainties in the situation has cleared away, is the contention of Dr. Holbrook Working of the University of Minnesota, who has been giving much time to a study of the primary principles which determine the price of this particular product so important in the agriculture of Minnesota.

The university man bases his conclusions on a formula which he has worked out for calculating the price to be expected on the basis of fundamental demand and supply conditions. "Judged by the price of potatoes for each year since 1902," he says, "the formula which we have studied out seems to be quite reliable. Of course, things may not work out just the same in the future as they seem to have worked out in the past, but the past gives us the best indication we have of what is likely to happen in the future. Ever an imperfect formula may be of aid."

Dr. Working has prepared a chart which shows that the price of potatoes in December has been about 93 per cent of the price for the season, September to May, or about 89 per cent of the price for the six months from December to May. "Taking this average for 16 years," he says, "we conclude that the price in December ought to be about 89 per cent of the price for the last six months of the season. Out of the 20 years for which we have figures, there were 12 Decembers in which the formula price was closer to what the actual price ought to have been than the actual price; seven in which the actual price was closer to what the price should have been than the formula price, and one in which either was as good as the other. The score is 12 to 7 in favor of the formula, with one tie. The actual price for December, 1922, was 38 cents a bushel, or 63 cents a hundred pounds, while the formula price was 75 cents a bushel or $1.25 a hundred pounds. It remains to be seen which will prove nearer what the price should

Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment

Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others. Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction. If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides. Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.

Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.

Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.

SOME JUSTICE IN WILLARD'S DEMAND

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Jan. 27.—The case of Jess Willard is a problem to the boxing world just as big as he is. Those who have the good of the game at heart must decide on what constitutes a fair deal for the former heavyweight champion. Those who have their own good at heart and are in the game for what they can get out of it, have to figure on how much the public will really stand for.

Willard defends his campaign for another bout with Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight championship with statements that he is the former champion and has the right of an ex-titled holder for another chance; that he is the biggest and strongest of all the contenders and that he can get into condition to fight.

With some qualifications, there is some soundness in Willard's claims. There is no doubt that he was entitled to a return bout and the justice of his demand never would have been questioned if he had not been over three years in deciding he wanted it.

Beyond all doubt, Jess is physically the biggest and strongest man in the heavyweight class, but size doesn't mean anything when it is accompanied by so many years.

That Willard can get back into condition is something that can be determined only after he has shown himself.

Johnny Dundee and Willie Lewis, two ring veterans who know something about conditions and who haven't any axes to grind with Willard, looked him over recently and declared they thought him to be in splendid condition.

"He looks better than he did when he was here to meet Moran," they both said.

"Freckles" of Screen Fame Loses Wager and Stages Big Fight for Picture

Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced screen star, hails from Missouri when it comes to being shown that any breed of canine is, was, or ever will be taller than he is. But it took director Sam L. Warner to convince the film prodigy that "Props," the great Dane watch dog at the Warner Brothers studios in Los Angeles, tops him by a head's length.

The controversy that brought the cry of "show me" from Barry was waged during the filming of a scene for "Rags and Riches," which will be shown at the New Park theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

The scene in question was a fight between Barry and a group of tough youngsters. Barry was instructed to "tear in" with gusto into the youngsters, in order to prove to them that he was no mollycoddle. The scene was rehearsed, and finally the filming took place. But the director thought the fight entirely too tame for the screen, and once more instructed the freckled star to stage a real fight in the true sense of the word.

Barry became somewhat temperamental, and declared he was "fighting" like anything, and that he couldn't be expected to chew the ears of his kid enemies. It thereupon occurred to the director to bring "Props" into the controversy.

"Why 'Props' could show you how to stage a fight," said the director Warner. "And what's more I'll bet you he's got it all over you when it comes to height."

"What'er you mean?" retorted Barry.

"I say that 'Props' is taller than you are, and what's more—"

Barry chuckled. "Taller than me?"

"Yes. And I'll betcher too."

"Allright, how much yer wanna bet?"

"I say," argued the director, "that 'Props' is a head taller than you are, and if he is you are to fight the kids in the scene as you've never fought in your life. If 'Props' isn't taller than you, then you can have anything you want."

This was a big order, and Barry accepted the wager. Props was taken away from the front gate for a few minutes and, dear reader, the freckle-faced kid lost his wager. He is said to have been so angered by the loss of the wager (he was going to ask for a pony if he'd won) that he staged one of the greatest fights of his film career.

Props is ten pounds heavier than Alexander, and since Mr. Warner acquired him he has appointed himself day and night watchman of the Warner studios.

Berlin (By Mail).—"Fritz the Stripper," a kind of criminal rivaling the famous Jack the Peeper, Jack the Snipper and other old police characters, has made his debut in Berlin. ## AMUSEMENTS

Zane Grey's "Golden Dreams" at Lyceum

If you want a good thrill, if you like romantic heroes and imprisoned heroines, by all means, see "Golden Dreams," by Zane Grey, at the Lyceum theatre last time tonight.

An interesting and novel feature in the presentation of an America circus in a small Spanish town. The hero and the heroine are Americans in the State of Chinora, where a plot is concocted to marry the heroine who is a niece of a rich oil well owner, to the impoverished nephew of a down-at-the-heels count. The Americans make friends with their circus compatriots; and when the weak nobles plan to abduct their prey, the performers come to her rescue and stage one of the most thrilling mob fights we have ever seen. With the odds fifty to one against them, they liberate the tigers and the lions. We figure one tiger the equal of a hundred men.

At the Lyceum Sunday

The unique spectacle of a just-wed wife busily engaged in vamping her own husband can be enjoyed when the picture, "All Fair in Love" comes to the Lyceum on Sunday.

Natalie Marshall is a spoiled child who wins her husband in spite of the designing methods of an alluring adventuress. When she believes him faithless, she refuses to recognize the marriage pact, but finally love triumphs over suspicion, and she attempts to win him back. What happens then forms a farce that is highly hilarious. May Collins, Richard Dix, Stuart Holmes and Raymond Hatton are featured.

Gloria Swanson Does Hard Work in "The Great Movement"

Gloria Swanson spent most of one day lying in a rude cot in a rough cabin during the filming of "The Great Movement," her first Paramount starring vehicle, written by Elinor Glyn and directed by Saw Wood, which will be the feature at the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

This is the scene wherein she is presumably bitten by a rattlesnake and is in dangerous straits for some time. It was easy work to lie comfortably between the blankets but Miss Swanson made up for this when she came to some of the really strenuous scenes of the play.

DRINK WATER WHEN KIDNEYS HURT YOU

Take Glass of Salts If Your Back Aches or Bladder Troubles You

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach aches, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Advt.

Is An Advertising Investment Good Collateral?

Your money deposited in banks is loaned by bankers upon the security of merchandise whose value has been created and is maintained by advertising.

Is the created more substantial than its creator—the product than the tool?

More and more, bankers are recognizing the essential verity of this principle—that money can be loaned as safely upon a sound advertising investment as upon other collateral which advertising has developed and maintained.

Scene from "RAGS TO RICHES" featuring WESLEY BARRY

"Freckles" of Screen Fame Loses
Wager and Stages Big Fight

Wesley Barry, the freckle-faced screen star, hails from Missouri when it comes to being shown that any breed of canine is, was, or ever will be taller than he is. But it took director Sam L. Warner to convince the film prodigy that "Props," the great Dane watch dog at the Warner Brothers studios in Los Angeles, tops him by a head's length.

The controversy that brought the cry of "show me" from Barry was waged during the filming of a scene for "Rags and Riches," which will be shown at the New Park theatre on Saturday and Sunday.

The scene in question was a fight between Barry and a group of tough youngsters. Barry was instructed to "tear in" with gusto into the youngsters, in order to prove to them that he was no mollycoddle. The scene was rehearsed, and finally the filming took place. But the director thought the fight entirely to tame for the screen, and once more instructed the freckled star to stage a real fight in the true sense of the word.

Barry became somewhat temperamental, and declared he was "fight-in" like anything, and that he couldn't be expected to chew the ears of his kid enemies. It thereupon occurred to the director to bring "Props," into the controversy.

"Why 'Props' could show you how to stage a fight," said the director Warner. "And what's more I'll bet you he's got it all over you when it comes to height."

"What'er you mean?" retorted Barry.

"I say that 'Props' is taller than you are, and what's more—"

Barry chuckled. "Taller than me?"

"Yes. And I'll betcher too."

"Allright, how much yer wanna bet?"

"I say," argued the director, "that 'Props' is a head taller than you are, and if he is you are to fight the kids in the scene as you've never fought in your life. If 'Props' isn't taller than you, then you can have anything you want."

This was a big order, and Barry accepted the wager. Props was taken away from the front gate for a few minutes and, dear reader, the freckle-faced kid lost his wager. He is said to have been so angered by the loss of the wager (he was going to ask for a pony if he'd won) that he staged one of the greatest fights of his film career.

Props is ten pounds heavier than Alexander, and since Mr. Warner acquired him he has appointed himself day and night watchman of the Warner studios.

"Fritz The Stripper"

(By United Press)
Berlin (By Mail).—"Fritz the Stripper," a kind of criminal rivaling the famous Jack the Peeper, Jack the Snipper and other old police characters, has made his debut in Berlin. A night prowler, still at large, knocks his victims in the head, strips them of all their clothes and leaves them to the mercies of the elements.

AMUSEMENTS

Zane Grey's "Golden Dreams" at Lyceum

If you want a good thrill, if you like romantic heroes and imprisoned heroines, by all means, see "Golden Dreams," by Zane Grey, at the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

An interesting and novel feature in the presentation of an American circus in a small Spanish town. The hero and the heroine are Americans in the State of Chinora, where a plot is concocted to marry the heroine who is a niece of a rich oil well owner, to the impoverished nephew of a down-at-the-heels count. The Americans make friends with their circus compatriots; and when the weak nobles plan to abduct their prey, the performers come to her rescue and stage one of the most thrilling mob fights we have ever seen. With the odds fifty to one against them, they liberate the tigers and the lions. We figure one tiger the equal of a hundred men.

At the Lyceum Sunday

The unique spectacle of a just-wed wife busily engaged in vamping her own husband can be enjoyed when the picture, "All Fair in Love" comes to the Lyceum on Sunday.

Natalie Marshall is a spoiled child who wins her husband in spite of the designing methods of an alluring adventuress. When she believes him faithless, she refuses to recognize the marriage pact, but finally love triumphs over suspicion, and she attempts to win him back. What happens then forms a farce that is highly hilarious. May Collins, Richard Dix, Stuart Holmes and Raymond Hatton are featured.

Gloria Swanson Does Hard Work in "The Great Moment"

Gloria Swanson spent most of one day lying in a rude cot in a rough cabin during the filming of "The Great Moment," her first Paramount starring vehicle, written by Elmer Glyn and directed by Saw Wood, which will be the feature at the Lyceum theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

This is the scene wherein she is presumably bitten by a rattlesnake and is in dangerous straits for some time. It was easy work to lie comfortably between the blankets but Miss Swanson made up for this when she came to some of the really strenuous scenes of the play.

DRINK WATER WHEN KIDNEYS HURT YOU

Take Glass of Salts If Your Back
Aches or Bladder Troubles
You

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.—Adv.

Is An Advertising Investment
Good Collateral?

Your money deposited in banks is loaned by bankers upon the security of merchandise whose value has been created and is maintained by advertising.

Is the created more substantial than its creator—the product than the tool?

More and more, bankers are recognizing the essential verity of this principle—that money can be loaned as safely upon a sound advertising investment as upon other collateral which advertising has developed and maintained.
